Terra di Lavoro

The potential of the volcanic terrain descending towards the sea, together with Riccardo Cotarella, a respected wine maker with a particular interest in reviving and enhancing wines from southern Italy, brought about the birth, in 1993, of a product that aroused an incredible amount of excitement.

Barbera

Italy is Barbera's original home and the best Barbera wines come from the Piedmont region.

The style of the wine is fresh, with tart blackberry notes and abundant acidity.

Barbera wines are the perfect pairing with rich dark meats, mushrooms, herbs, herbaceous cheeses like blue cheese and higher tannin foods like root vegetables & braised greens.

The bright acidity in the wine will make a rich fatty or high tannin dish complete.

Barbaresco

The mostly soils in Barbaresco, along with its slightly milder climate results in wines with noticeably less tannins than Barolo. This does not mean is not tannic, is just more elegant and delicate. In terms of flavors, Barbaresco delivers amazing red fruit (strawberry, raspberry, cherry) along with notes of roses and anise and it's not quite as "tarry." Traditional pairings for Barbaresco are rich meat-focused dishes like braised short ribs, beef roasts, lamb or veal chops.

Barolo

Barolo is actually the fruitiest and most full-bodied of all the Nebbiolo regions in Northern Italy. When drinking it, expect flavors of raspberry, red cherry, roses, allspice and truffles. The lighter-tasting wine communes include La Morra and Barolo, while the bolder-tasting wine communes include Serralunga d'Alba, Monforte d'Alba, and Castiglione Falletto, The wine's high acidity is perfect to match against higher acid foods with saltiness, fat or olive oil to compliment the wine's tannin.

Chianti

The Sangiovese that forms the majority of the Chianti blend is a thin-skinned grape, which makes translucent wines. Besides Sangiovese, Chianti wines may contain wine grapes like Canaiolo, Colorino, Cabernet Sauvignon and even Merlot. Common tasting notes include red fruits, dried herbs, balsamic vinegar, smoke, and game. The savoury flavors, along with the dry, powdery tannin makes Chianti wines ideal with dishes that use olive oil or rich pieces of meat.

Vino Nobile di Montepulciano

Nobile can only be produced from vineyards surrounding the town of Montepulciano in Southern Tuscany. The wine is made predominantly from Sangiovese, and the medium bodied palate presents flavors of dark ripe berries, with notes of plum and hints of earthiness. Thanks to its bright acidity and gentle tannins, Nobile is very versatile.

Brunello di Montalcino

Brunello di Montalcino is one of Italy's top regional wines, first labeled as such in 1865 by Biondi-Santi. Wines are made with 100% special clone of Sangiovese, called Brunello or Prugnolo Gentile. Due to its thicker-skinned berries, Brunello produces wines with exceptionally bold fruit flavors, high tannin, and high acidity. Brunello will be the perfect pairing with heavy meat dishes, and heavy pasta dishes, rich stews and blue-veined cheese or Pecorino Cheese.

Val di Cava represents 1.5% of the Brunello vineyards of Montalcino and 1% of the Brunello production. This results in a wine that represents the best tradition in structure and aromatics, along with elegance, harmony and fruit.

Super Tuscans

“Super Tuscan” is a term used to describe red wines from Tuscany that may include the use of non-indigenous grapes, particularly Merlot, Cabernet Sauvignon and Syrah. The creation of super Tuscan wines was a result of the frustration winemakers had towards a slow bureaucracy in changing the wine law of Italy during the 1970’

Tenuta San Guido

Sassicaia is normally about 85% Cabernet Sauvignon and 14% Cabernet Franc. It is made in a simple fashion way, fermented in stainless-steel, temperature-controlled vats and then aged for up to 24 months in two-thirds new French oak barrels.

The winemaking process has been pretty much the same since the Incisa della Rocchetta family started using stainless steel vats in the early 1980s.
